

The Canadian Meteorological and Oceanographic Society (CMOS)
in cooperation with Ocean Networks Canada (ONC) invite you to attend this year's

Educators' Day!

at the 2011 CMOS Congress

Monday, June 6, 2011
Victoria Conference Centre
Victoria, B.C.
8:30am-4:30pm

- Who? Teachers, professors, environmental educators, instructors, Guide/Scout leaders, homeschoolers
- What? A day full of engaging and interactive educational ideas and activities about meteorology, climatology, oceanography, forecasting, climate change and so much more! Learn the principles of ocean-atmosphere literacy, ways to incorporate real-time data, and enjoy hands-on activities for their curriculum and program planning.
- Why? Learn directly from experts from the Meteorological Service of Canada, universities, Bamfield Marine Sciences Centre, school districts and others just in time for Oceans Day (June 8), Environment Week (all that week) and next year's planning.
- How much? Just $20 gets you the full day, plus networking breaks, lunch, a takeaway package of resources, and access to the CMOS Congress that day.

Register now at: www.cmos.ca/congress2011

Questions? Email lisa.vitols@ec.gc.ca or ONC at oceaned@uvic.ca

OCEAN NETWORKS CANADA
A University of Victoria Initiative