

The test does not know...

...that my children have never sat down, in complete silence, and been forced to write down answers to questions about subject matter with which they are unfamiliar with no ability to have discussions with their peers or their teacher or to ask questions.